

Tall Buildings: Up Up and Away?

Date: April 18, 2011

Original Newsletter(s) this article was published in: Blaneys on Building: April 2011

There has been much debate about tall buildings (buildings over 12 storeys in height) in Toronto in the past number of years particularly due to the decreasing availability of development land, and the province and municipal forces on intensification – but how tall is too tall and where should tall buildings be permitted?